Press Release: ADARA Networks – Thu, Dec 8, 2011 2:05 PM EST

SAN JOSE, CA--(Marketwire -12/08/11)- ADARA Networks, provider of a unique product platform that enables Enterprise IT to positively impact Net Profitability for businesses of all sizes through unified data center and network optimization, announced that Eric Johnson, CEO, was the featured VIP Speaker at The Security Network's Cyber Summit on Wednesday, December 7, 2011. The Security Network strives to advance security by fostering innovation through collaboration worldwide, and brought together IT leaders from prominent organizations including McAfee, Intel, IBM, HP and others to engage in a one-day summit themed "Protecting our Digital Shores."

As the VIP Speaker, Mr. Johnson discussed the need for secure communication in today's cyber world. Specifically, Mr. Johnson provided insight into how ADARA solutions create ultra-secure environments, enable services to securely communicate across multiple platforms in real time and set the path to universal services deployment. As part of that, Mr. Johnson highlighted how ADARA addresses the issue of cyber security, allowing for the secure delivery of mission critical information across disparate networks.

"ADARA's mission is to help organizations streamline operations by optimizing their IT resources and enabling timely secure communication across multiple networks," said Eric Johnson, CEO, ADARA Networks. "We were pleased to take part in The Security Network's efforts to address cyber security as we recognize security is of critical importance in today's business environment. We hope that attendees took away thoughtful insight as to how organizations can combat cyber security threats, while not limiting the communication process and ultimately ensuring that business operations flow as smoothly as possible with guaranteed security. Most importantly, The Security Network's Cyber Security Summit has become an industry leading forum in Cyber Security, and The Security Network is leading through action; ADARA is proud to participate in providing that actionable leadership."
